03 Team Engagement & Leadership Alignment

Strengthening the connection between business priorities and presentation delivery

PRESENTATION PARTNERSHIP
Designers translate business goals, source material, and stakeholder expectations.

OPERATING CADENCE
Regular briefings and reviews improve visibility, reduce late revisions, and keep projects aligned.

CROSS-FUNCTIONAL ALIGNMENT
Closer coordination across Sales, Ops, Marketing, and design supports better alignment.

LEADERSHIP DESIGN WORKSHOP
The design team recently led presentation-planning sessions with commercial and operations leaders.

LEADERSHIP GROUPS
Sales • Operations • Marketing

TEAMS REPRESENTED
Included Sales, Operations , Marketing, Client Success, and Leadership.

OUTCOME
Strong feedback on story clarity, design quality, coordination, and follow-through. Priorities discussed and expectations set.

NEXT: Plan similar workshops across more business units to strengthen alignment and design readiness.

4 Presentation Initiatives & Major Wins

Examples of presentation strategy, design coordination, and business impact

1

EXECUTIVE REVIEW | REPORT REDESIGN

Converted a dense report into a clear executive narrative with sharper insights.

Outcome:
120+
Slides standardized across three teams, with full consistency.

2

SALES PROPOSAL | REUSABLE TEMPLATE SYSTEM

Built reusable proposal layouts that reduced formatting effort and improved consistency.

Outcome:
120+
Slides standardized across three teams, with full consistency.

3

LEADERSHIP SUMMIT | CROSS-FUNCTIONAL STORY

Coordinated content from multiple departments and transformed it into one clear, cohesive leadership presentation.

Outcome:
120+
Slides standardized across three teams, with full consistency.

4

URGENT CLIENT PITCH | RAPID DESIGN SUPPORT

Pitch: Reworked a critical client presentation under a compressed deadline without reducing quality.

Outcome:
120+
Slides standardized across three teams, with full consistency.

Other Workstreams: Proposal Design • Executive Reporting • Design Audits • Template Systems • Event Presentations

05 Design Oversight & Key Learnings

Moving beyond slide production toward consistent quality and clearer communication

DESIGN ROLE

CLARIFY
Identify the audience, objective, and desired action before design begins

STRUCTURE
Turn unorganized source material into a logical, persuasive narrative.

DESIGN WITH PURPOSE
Use hierarchy, data visuals, and consistency to reinforce the message.

ENSURE QUALITY
Review accuracy, readability, consistency, and presentation readiness.

KEY LEARNINGS

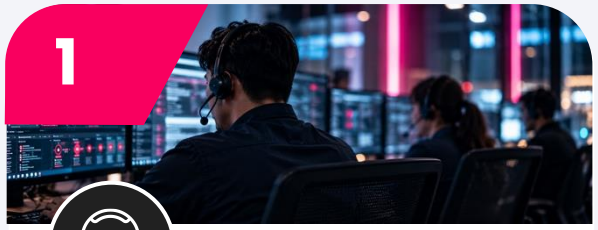

1. Strong presentations begin with a clear brief—not a chosen template or visual style.
2. Content approval before final design reduces avoidable revisions and protects production time.
3. Executive audiences need conclusions and implications—not excessive supporting detail.
4. Reusable systems create speed, but every presentation still needs a purposeful story.

Presentation design is not simple formatting.
Its value is to organize information, clarify decisions, and focus the audience on what matters.

06 Next Phase: Make Design More Measurable & Scalable

The foundation is in place; the next step is to quantify impact and scale the operating model

1

VISIBILITY

Regular stakeholder planning and design workshops.

2

MEASUREMENT

Track turnaround, satisfaction, revision volume, asset reuse, and structured feedback.

3

QUALITY ANALYSIS

Track recurring design issues, content gaps, and causes of late-stage revisions.

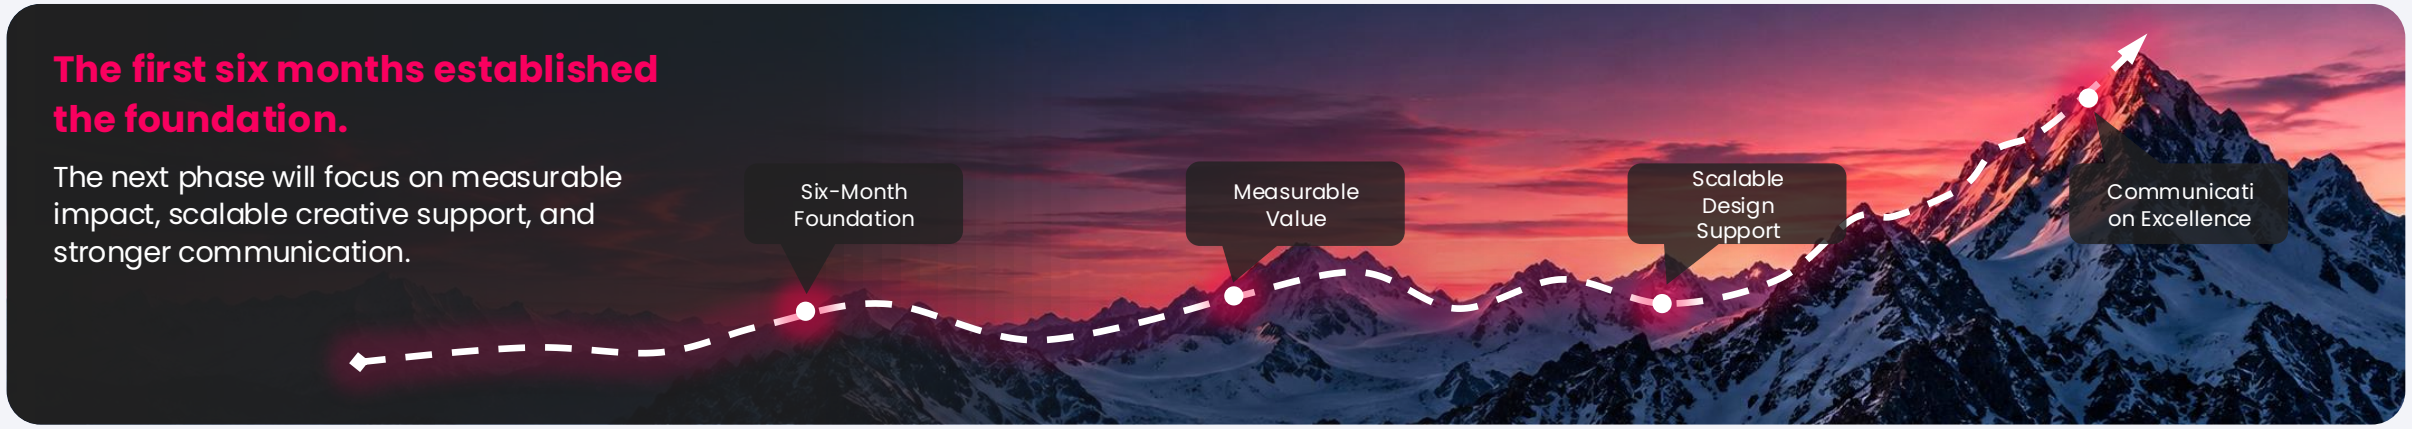

4

PROACTIVE IMPROVEMENT

Expand templates, presentation training, design audits, and storytelling support.

The first six months established the foundation.

The next phase will focus on measurable impact, scalable creative support, and stronger communication.

07 Design is a High-Value Partner Across Business Teams

19 responses: 8 Sales, 6 Operations, and 5 Leadership stakeholders

19/19 Rated design impact High / Very High

19/19 Reported clearer visual communication

18/19 Reported faster preparation / review TAT

4.84/5 Overall Satisfaction

Where respondents see design adding the most value

Clearer presentation structure	17/19
More professional visual design	16/19
Faster stakeholder alignment	16/19
Stronger executive communication	14/19
Improved confidence during delivery	13/19

What respondents told us

> "The new structure helped leadership understand the recommendation immediately."

> "Dedicated presentation support significantly reduced our preparation and review time."

> "Complex material became a clear and persuasive business story."

Respondent Mix

Feedback spans commercial, operations, and leadership stakeholders.

8 Sales | 6 Ops | 5 Leaders

Leadership Takeaway

Design provides a trusted path from business information to confident communication.

08 Protect the Value:
Scale Design Without Sacrificing Quality

Feedback is strongly positive; the next opportunity is to make support more proactive, measurable, and consistent.

Improvement opportunities from survey feedback

1 Proactive Planning

Regular planning sessions for major pitches, reviews, leadership events, and process improvements.

2 Demonstrate Value

Lightweight tracking of key projects, turnaround, revisions, asset reuse, and stakeholder outcomes.

3 Content Readiness

Introduce briefing and content-readiness standards before full presentation design begins.

4 Consistent Support

Expand presentation support through a planned model that protects capacity and creative quality.

Keeping the Equation Balanced

Current Model:

6 Design Specialists Supporting

27 Business Teams Across Two Regions

RECOMMENDED NEXT STEPS

MONTHLY

Review demand, stakeholder feedback, completed projects, and upcoming priorities.

LIGHTWEIGHT EVIDENCE

Use a shared project summary to track delivery time, revision cycles, feedback, and outcomes.

CLEAR OWNERSHIP

Business owners approve content; the design team owns narrative structure and visual execution.

CAPACITY-LED ROLLOUT

Prioritize work with leadership based on business impact, urgency, and design capacity.

09 Strong Collaboration Across Business Teams

Regular engagement with stakeholders strengthens alignment, accelerates production, and improves presentation quality.

Presentation-planning workshop with commercial leaders for an upcoming client proposal and executive review.

Leadership workshop on data storytelling and reporting.

Cross-functional review with Operations, Sales, and Marketing before a major business presentation.
